Welcome to URINETOWN, the second production of the 2019-2020 SHS Drama Season. In October, we produced a stylized and hilarious version of William Shakespeare’s A MIDSUMMER NIGHT’S DREAM. In May, be sure not to miss the SHS Drama premiere of Elton John’s beautiful dance extravaganza, BILLY ELLIOT.

In 2003, I attended an educational theatre conference in downtown Minneapolis. I found myself with a free evening and decided to take in a production of the national tour of URINETOWN at the beautiful Orpheum Theatre. I knew very little about the show going in, but left having been mesmerized by a witty, irreverent, self-mocking satire of a musical. With rousing and catchy songs like “Run, Freedom, Run,” “Snuff That Girl,” and “I See a River,” I am certain that you’ll leave the theatre tonight humming a tune or two. People have asked me, “Mr. King, is the show really about pee?” Well, yes and no. The twenty-year drought that causes the extreme taxation on urination is merely the plot vehicle. At the end of the day, the show takes jabs at capitalism, political corruption, corporate greed, and most hilariously, musical theatre itself!

Fun facts about URINETOWN abound. The musical premiered in September 2001, and its opening was, incidentally, delayed by a week following the 9/11 attacks and at least one line was removed from the script that hit a little too close to home. After debuting at the New York International Theatre festival, the show eventually moved to Broadway and played the Henry Miller Theatre through 2004 and played a total of 965 performances. It was nominated for ten Tony Awards and won three, including Best Original Score. URINETOWN was written by Greg Kotis and Mark Hollmann and was the duo’s only collaboration. Playwright Kotis got the idea for the show after visiting Paris on a low-budget trip, during which Kotis rationed his trips to the city’s public pay toilets.

We hope that you enjoy watching this musical romp as much as we have had preparing it. Kudos to the cast, crew, orchestra, and staff for their tireless work. Whether it’s orchestra, choir, band, dance, or theatre, the performing arts are alive and well in the Shorewood School District. Thanks for all you do to keep it that way! Enjoy URINETOWN!
